47 U.S.C. Section 160(c); WC Docket No. 18-141; Category 1

Dear FCC,

The only way we get the best service for a fair price is an open market. Are you seriously considering a monopoly or near monopoly on internet and telephone services?! You should be ashamed of yourselves, that is not what this country is built on. Presently everyone is dependent on these services to function on a daily basis with work and school, we need competition to make progress. The market will set itself and adjust accordingly. We've all seen what happens when there is only one or a small few companies to choose from, prices go way up and quality and responsibility drops dramatically. Do the right thing, the smart thing and keep broadband competition open. We use a local company and are extremely happy with their service and quality of services.
